EVENTS PLANNED FOR EVERY DAY OF ARMY WEEK

In the week from June 29th to July 5th the people of Canada are doing honor to their army—the Gentlemen in Khaki who have offered their lives, if need be, in the defence of their country, the men whose presence in United Kingdom for the past two years, like a fist constantly shaken in the face of Hitler, have helped discourage any attempt to invade those islands.

The decision to hold Army Week was the result of a demand by the people themselves, a spontaneous urge to do tribute to the service "second to none."

The programme has been so designed that each day emphasizes some phase of army life. Monday, June 29th, will be known as Soldiers' Day. Special entertainments are planned for the soldiers. Gifts, parcels and letters will be sent to men in the service.

Understanding between the army and the civilian population will be fostered on Tuesday, Civilian Day. Attention will be focused on the question: "What am I doing as a civilian to support the soldier in this war?" Restaurants will be asked to prepare meals according to army diet sheets. Co-operation between the army and other armed services will be emphasized on Wednesday, United Services Day. Thursday will be devoted to local events. On Friday the important part played in the defence of Canada by the Reserve Army will be spotlighted.

Tribute to our allies will be paid on Saturday, United Nations Day. Detachments of the forces of the United States will be invited to visit Canada and units of the United Nations training in Canada will take part in special programmes.

Sunday will be a Day of Prayer.

A Letter from Col. the Hon. J. L. Ralston

MINISTER OF NATIONAL DEFENCE
To the Citizens of Canada.

It has been decided to mark the period from June 29th to July 5th, 1942, as "Army Week". The purpose is to give the people of Canada an opportunity of expressing their pride in the Canadian Army and honouring the Gentlemen in Battledress, the Nursing Sisters and the Members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

During Army Week, citizens will have an unusual opportunity of seeing the Army at work. Each day has been set aside for some specific purpose. Monday, June 29th, for instance, has been made "Soldier's Day" when the public will be invited to send gifts and parcels to the men overseas and when they can entertain the men at dances and other special entertainments. The next day, June 30th, is "Civilians' Day", when civilians will be asked to prepare meals on a food ration system and restaurants will serve meals identical to those served to Canadian soldiers. On Dominion Day there will be garrison parades and special military demonstrations. The 2nd, 3rd and 4th of July will equally be devoted to enabling Canadians to learn at first hand various phases of Army activities.

Army Week will wind up on Sunday, July 5th, when the public will be invited to attend church services in Army camps and barracks, and special prayers will be offered for the members of the Armed Forces. On that day, camps will be open to the public and demonstrations and displays of barracks and camps will be arranged.

As Minister of National Defence, I am intensely proud of the men and women in khaki and of the women in Nursing Service blue who are serving Canada. I am sure that my fellow Canadians feel just as I do. I extend a most cordial invitation to all of you to express this well deserved appreciation by joining in the events of Army Week.

Yours very truly,

J. L. Ralston

CROWS' NEST PAOS GOLF TOURNAMENT AT KIMBERLEY

The annual Crows' Nest Paos Golf Association tournament is being held at Kimberley tomorrow, Sunday and Monday. We understand that quite a number from this district will attend. Weather so far this spring has not given many localities an opportunity for workouts, but in any case they are adept, bolstering themselves in their dreams. We look forward to a good portion of the trophies coming this way. The district includes Lethbridge and all points west to Kimberley.

The property of John Danco, at the corner of Dearborn Street and Ninth Avenue, and also at corner of Lyon Creek which went on the rampage during the recent flood, tearing away about half of John's property, has been very much replaced by John's efforts. A caterpillar-plow was used for the work.

For Increased National Efficiency EAT MORE BREAD!

CANADIANS—whose health record is high among the nations—obtain one-quarter of their food energy from bread. Especially if your work requires quick or sustained energy, you should eat plenty of bread with each meal. Bread is rich in carbohydrates and, made with milk, —as it usually is today—bread is an important source of protein, equal to meat in muscle building and repair. Eat more of this energy-giving food and increase your efficiency for today's emergencies!

Some weeks ago we addressed to you a personal appeal for your support and that of your newspaper in the matter of publicity for the fund campaign of the Canadian Red Cross Society. We knew that no such appeal would be made in vain. Nevertheless, the tremendous volume of newspaper, editorial, pictorial and other advertising support which developed all over Canada by way of response, surprised us.

Words are somewhat futile at times to express adequately a sense of appreciation, but for your part in helping us to aid so great a cause to its ultimate and undoubted success, we jointly in behalf of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and warmly in our names "Thank You!"

Yours, etc.,

Publicity For Canada

FOR SOME TIME it has been felt by many Canadians that too little is known about Canada in other lands. This has been notable, especially in England and the United States, where the Canadian visitor has on occasion encountered what is to him an amazing and appalling lack of knowledge about our country. In the past we have met this situation with tolerance and some amusement, but there has always been, too, the suggestion of a slight to our national pride. It has been realized, however, that this lack of knowledge about Canada by many who live beyond her borders, is not due to lack of interest on their part, but to their failure to publicize our country.

Need Wider Information

In recent months this question has been considered more seriously than at any time, because of a misapprehension that has sprung up in the United States regarding Canada's war effort. Many American news writers who are apprised of both sides of the situation have been urging Canadians to increase their organization for publicity in the States. Many Canadian newspapers have likewise been stressing the need for a wider service for information below the border. To deal with the problem the Dominion government recently appointed Mr. Charles Vining, a Montreal newspaper man, to make a survey of Canadian publicity in the United States and to report to the government on his findings. Doubtless this will result in an expansion of our news services in the United States, and in the promotion of a better understanding of what Canada is doing in the present world struggle.

We Should Be Realists

Canada is still a young nation. We have a magnificent country, rich in natural resources and scenic beauties. Many of our resources are developed and are the sources of large and modern industrial enterprises. Our agriculture is on a scale sufficient to supply our own needs and those of many other parts of the world. At present both our industry and agriculture are playing an enormous part in sustaining England in these critical times. Because we are still a young nation we have not yet found a strong means of national expression. We have few national newspapers or magazines with a large international circulation. In the years following the war there will be great problems to be settled and Canada will be represented at the council tables with the other United Nations. It is strongly felt by many thoughtful Canadians that before that time we must not only fully realize our importance as a nation, but spread that knowledge through the nations at whose sides we are fighting.

Commando Raids

Vice-Admiral Lord Mountbatten Discloses Some Inside History
How Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the German African army, escaped a commando raid but lost his entire general staff was told by the dark-haired commander of the famous commandos, Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

It happened the night before the British offensive in the last Libyan campaign. A commando party worked its way over the desert, behind the German lines, until it came to Rommel's base.

The place was captured easily and everyone inside killed or captured but Rommel was not there—he was in Rome attending a birthday celebration.

Lord Louis told how two young British commando officers calmly stood on the forecastle head of the explosive-laden destroyer Campbelltown in St. Nazaire harbor, blandly assuring 50 to 100 German technical experts that all was well until the ship blew up and carried everyone to death. The raid on St. Nazaire was made March 28.

"Those two boys stayed there and never batted an eye," said their commander. "They had guts."

The youthful commander of the commandos—he is only 25—but he has seen much naval service in this war and the last one—stressed the teamwork of his combined force of sailors, soldiers, airmen and marines. It is becoming a regular Allied force because American officers now are attached to his staff and four commandos are coming to the United States for instructional purposes.

Wear Caps Now

Bank Messengers in Britain Have Discarded Fall Silk Hat

The tall silk hat, traditional headgear of Britain's bank messengers, is the latest victim of war conditions. An announcement said the topper is being exchanged for "a pebbled, but more serviceable cap." "Bank messengers carry steel helmets, and they should be used to use them if they would be rather difficult to pack a topper away," an official of Lloyd's Bank explained. "Then there's the matter of economizing in the use of materials."

Factory Made Cricket Bats But Now Makes Rifle Stocks

A North of England factory which used to make cricket bats has now turned over to producing rifle stocks and stocks for Tommy guns and rifles, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

It occurred to its manager when war broke out that his machines could be adapted for making the wooden "furniture" of guns. The suggestion was pooh-poohed at first, but he won the day and got his contract.

Today the machines which three years ago were turning out cricket bats are shaping four slabs of wood into four rifle butts in as many minutes. Other machines complete the 92 processes which are necessary before the butts and stocks go into the ammonia chamber to mellow. They are then treated with linseed oil.

The craftsmen who made the cricket bats maintain that today, out of a pile of other rifles, a seasoned war veteran will still choose their work for its "feel."

Ownership Transferred

Britain Has Given Island Of Patos To Venezuela

(Spanish for ducks) Island, a 170-acre dot in the Caribbean, three miles off Venezuela, used to be one of the tiniest bits of the British Empire. The Foreign Office kept a retired Negro policeman from nearby Trinidad there as caretaker. All he had to do was run up the Union Jack daily. His family and his goats were the sole inhabitants. There weren't even ducks.

Britain originally claimed the islet under the 1802 Treaty of Amiens which gave it Trinidad. But since 1904 Venezuela has disputed its ownership, and the squabble threatened the otherwise friendly relations between the nations.

On May 21 Britain did the noble thing. King George signed a bill ceding Patos to Venezuela free of charge.—Newsweek.

The Individual

Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.

By Alan Maurice Irwin

Well, we got it at last! A touch of total war in our own front yard! Freighters torpedoed in the St. Lawrence! I know the news is stale, but since I know that broad estuary as well as most of us know Main Street or Broadway you might be interested in a few remarks on the subject.

Naturally, since the question of security enters into it, I shall not attempt to speculate as to where the attack took place although, judging by the hour at which the attacks were made and the reported time of the landings of survivors at various little ports it is not too hard for an ex-ship-news reporter to figure out within fifty miles or so.

What, is most important, now that the sneaking underwater hounds have at last gathered their courage to the point of risking their lives in confined waters, is the steps to be taken by members of the Individual Citizen's Army.

There is no need to worry about the steps that are being taken by the Canadian Navy—it was immediately announced that long-prepared plans were at once put into effect.

Remember a few days after the little yellow apes attacked Pearl Harbour? They shelled the California coast. That was done from a submarine.

It can happen here! Not beyond the bounds of possibility are landings at obscure spots in the dead of night for water and food or diesel oil.

That is why a recruiting campaign is going on for the Reserve Army. Married men in the acceptable age group and married and single men whose categories until them for overseas service are needed to form a "Home Guard." There may be work for a home guard much sooner than we complacently anticipate.

There are long miles of shore-line on both sides of the estuary in which scattered farm houses are the only signs of habitation. But the men and women who live in these picturesque white houses are of a sturdy stock that stems back to the hardy Frenchmen who wrested Canada from the defenses of nature and who ably defended their territory against savages who would be appalled at the savagery displayed today by the "cultured" Nazis.

Even if there are submarines in the St. Lawrence we cannot all play the role of Madeleine de Vercheres, we cannot all join the Reserve Army, but we can all play our parts by doing everything possible in our daily lives to conserve every resource for wartime production.

From the little port that harbours the plot tender to its mouth the mighty St. Lawrence River takes on almost the proportions of an inland sea. Heavily wooded country abounding with wild life backs the settled fringe along the shores. It is tempting country to brutalized men who have been cooped up for weeks in the fetid atmosphere of a submarine.

Wild life, moose, deer, smaller game, are very tempting to men who have been living on German naval rations. They may be tempted to try a little hunting. And it may be too bad for them. Have you ever faced a conscientious Game Warden?

The farmers of the lower St. Lawrence are an amphibious people equally at home between the handles of a plough or a pair of oars, in a gasoline tractor or a fishing launch capable of riding the heavy seas for which the great river is noted. They will give a good account of themselves if they get the chance.

They are used to making a living the hard way in a year round contest with the elements and will be just as equal to protecting that living when the occasion arises.

But they won't be able to do it alone. They will need, and must have, every other Canadian standing behind them. They will need the Royal Canadian Navy—which so many of their sons have joined. And that Navy needs heavy clothes, warm food, rubber boots, depth charges, ammunition.

You've guessed it! That's where the Individual Citizen's Army enters the picture again.

To give the Navy its woollen sweaters, its heavy socks to wear under sea-boots, its hot cocoa-sweetened for energy—its depth charges, we

Slave Labor And Bondage Under Rule Of Nazis

London.—Soviet Foreign Commissioner Molotov, in a 1,200-word diplomatic note, accused the German high command of introducing the "universal practice of physical extermination" of war prisoners.

The German plans were said to have called for:

"Universal plunder of the population of our country in both towns and villages, accompanied by seizure and shipment to Germany of the personal property of Soviet citizens and the property of the Soviet state."

"Utter destruction of towns and villages from which the Nazis were forced to retreat under the blows of the armed forces of the Soviet Union."

"Seizure by the German army of occupation of land given by the Soviet state in perpetuity for the free use of collective farms and the settlement of German managers and German landowners on the seized land."

"Slave labor and bondage for our workers and peasants under the rule of German imperialist invaders."

"Forcible abduction of forced labor in Germany of several million Soviet citizens residing in towns and villages and the illegitimate clashing of them as prisoners of war."

"Destruction of Russian national culture and the national culture of the peoples of the Soviet Union and the forcible Germanization of Russians, Ukrainians, White Russians, Latvians, Estonians and other peoples of the U.S.S.R."

"Extermination of the Soviet population, prisoners of war and guerrilla fighters by bloody violence, torture, executions and the massacre of Soviet citizens irrespective of their nationalities, social standing, sex or age."

EMPIRE CASUALTIES

185,550 Reported During The First Two Years Of War

London.—The British Empire's armed forces suffered a total of 185,550 casualties, including natural deaths, during the first two years of war ended Sept. 2, 1941. Clement Attlee, secretary of state for Dominion affairs, told the House of Commons. The casualties included 14,687 officers. He said the total killed was 49,973; wounded, 46,363; prisoners, 58,458; missing, 29,156.

The United Kingdom lost 144,982; the dominions, 28,824; India and Burma, 8,591; the colonies, 6,153.

CAN STILL QUALIFY

Farmers Should Send In Return On Wheat Acreage Reduction

Ottawa.—Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the House of Commons that there was "no general ruling" this year requiring farmers qualifying for the wheat acreage reduction bonus to have their applications in before May 31.

But those who had changed their acreage from last year were asked to send a return to that effect. He was replying to a question from Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (Con., Souris) who said there was confusion in the minds of the farmers on this point.

IN AFRICAN RAID

Portable Explosive Magazine Was Among Things Found On Farm Johannesburg.—A Johannesburg detective testified at a high treason hearing that a "portable explosive magazine" was found on a farm occupied by one of 48 persons accused of being members of an illegal storm trooper organization.

The witness described the magazine as containing explosives, and added that a tin of gelignite was buried under a tree on the farm.

The farmhouse, he testified, was stocked with radios, radio parts, ammunition and field telephones, and several pistols.

FOR WOMEN WAR WORKERS

London.—The local police athletic association is sponsoring a beauty contest for women war workers, but there won't be any bathing suits. Entrants must appear in overalls. Winner will be awarded title of "Miss War Worker" and $400 cash.

BREAD SHORTAGE IN ITALY

Philadelphia.—A woman who spent four years in Italy says she "actually wept" on her return at the sight of white bread. "I hadn't seen a loaf in two years," said Mrs. Heba Kelly, who came back on the Swedish liner Drottningholm.

WILL MEET DEMAND

Canadian Railway Ready To Handle Any Increase In Business

Toronto.—The greatest movement in Canadian railway history is taking place today and rail facilities probably will be utilized further after the war, R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways said in an interview at the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention here.

"There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the ability of the railways to handle more business," he said. "I can definitely say that as a result of a far-reaching program introduced and carried out some time ago we are in a position today to meet all demands."

Mr. Vaughan said the C.N.R. is not yet inconvenienced by lack of manpower but there is a "possibility" of women being called upon to replace men.

Honors Awarded For Bravery To Canadian Flyers

Ottawa.—Gallantry in the face of danger, all-round hard work and efficiency are recognized in the list of King's birthday honors awarded in Canada on recommendation of the Royal Canadian Air Force and announced here.

For the first time since the awards were established during the Battle of Britain, the George Cross and the George Medal are awarded in Canada. The list is also remarkable because the honors are awarded on recommendation of the Canadian government directly to the King, instead of as before on recommendation of the United Kingdom air ministry.

The list contains only those honored for service in Canada, honors accorded Canadians for overseas service with the fighting forces are being announced in London.

The greasy lads who keep the aircraft fit for flying receive ample recognition in the list. Many of those honored are mechanics, some for general efficiency and good service and one or two for bravery.

The honors announced are one George Cross, two George Medals, 10 British Empire Medals, nine Air Force Crosses, four Air Force Medals and one mention in despatches. Of the total, 11 awards are for bravery in dealing with accident situations, 14 are for general efficiency, and two are for both.

The George Cross was awarded posthumously to Lt.-Col. K. M. Gravell of Vancouver, who died from burns suffered trying to rescue a pilot from the machine in which both crashed to earth.

Gravell, a pupil at the Calgary wireless school, not knowing the fate of the pilot, ignored the burning of his own clothing and tried to save his companion.

Two Saskatoon corporals, A. E. Sinclair and A. S. Hayton received the British Empire Medal for action and disregard of personal safety in saving a hangar and 18 aircraft at Saskatoon from destruction by fire. They played the fire extinguishers on a burning plane at close range and then enabled service crews to rock it off the jacks and wheel it out of the hangar.

Ft.-Sgt. G. F. G. Gayton, of Winnipeg, received the British Empire Medal for hard work at the bombing and gunnery school at Mossbank, Sask.

"Due almost entirely to his efforts," the citation said, "the maintenance flight at Mossbank is now one of the most efficient in Canada."

The Air Force Cross was won by Sgt.-Ldr. Frederick Mair Milligan of No. 32 R.F.T.S., Moose Jaw, Sask., whose "keenness and efficiency have been an inspiration to all who have come in contact with him." The citation said the efficiency of the squadron had reached a very high standard through his outstanding example.

AWARDED D.F.C.

London.—The Distinguished Flying Cross has been awarded Wing Cmdr. P. H. Woodruff, of Edmonton, for his part in leading an R.C.A.F. Blenheim fighter squadron of the coastal command during a recent attack on the German cruiser Prinz Eugen.

AMEND CRIMINAL CODE

Ottawa.—Without amendment the senate banking and commerce committee approved a measure amending the criminal code to enable photographs of documents and records to be used as evidence.

Berlin has fallen into enemy hands twice during the past two centuries. Russia captured the city in 1760, and the armies of Napoleon I in 1806.

NOT READY YET

But Britain Will Soon Send 1,000 Bombers Nightly Over Germany

Germany has been warned to prepare for air raids on a scale hitherto unknown.

Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris of the R.A.F. described as "silly" the phrase that "bombing can never win a war."

"We shall see," he said, speaking in a newscast. "It hasn't been tried yet and Germany, more and more desperately clinging to her widespread conquests and still foolishly enough striving for more, will make a most interesting subject for the initial experiment."

"Japan can be used to provide the confirmation. But don't expect too much just yet. There is work to do first—and a great deal of it."

(Harris was erroneously quoted in a Canadian Press despatch as suggesting that 10,000 bombers a night might soon fly over Germany and that many might fly directly from America "with formidable bomb loads." Harris did not give any figure on the number of bombers that might be used and did not indicate that bombings of Germany would be made by planes flying directly from North America.)

Harris said it was not possible for the R.A.F. to put 1,000 bombers a night over Germany "whenever we please." He said that time would come—"it may not long be delayed; but it is not yet."

King George Pays A Visit To U.S. Warships

U.S. Naval Force Base in Britain.—For the first time in the war the King has visited United States warships in British waters. He was received with the old-time nautical ceremony of the world's greatest naval powers blended with the easy democracy of the nations these ships defend.

King George first was piped aboard one of the United States' most modern cruisers, then went in Rear Admiral Robert Giffin's flagship—barge to a battleship.

He made the minute inspection of a man who knows ships and has served aboard them, chatted and joked with officers and men alike, and ranged the ships from officers' wardrooms to seamen's messes and the sick bay. He poked into big gun turrets and watched the long naval rifles swung and elevated.

"It was a great moment of naval history," commented one observer. "It meant the wedding of two great navies in the world—right in the face of the Axis."

As the King was piped aboard the cruiser, United States seamen stood at attention, a Marine guard stood over its tradition and smartness in presenting arms, and the band struck up "God Save The King."

Inspecting the crew's quarters, the King expressed surprise and pleasure at the luxury of the fittings.

"He talked to me as one sailor to another," Admiral Giffin said after the King's visit. "He liked our ships, liked the cut of our jibs, and liked the way they are kept shipshape and Bristol fashion."

Allocate Food Supplies For The Allied War Effort

Washington.—Agriculture Secretary Wickard called the government's new wartime food committee together for its first meeting, to hear an optimistic report on production prospects in U.S. and to make a survey of prospective requirements for military, lend-lease and civilian needs.

The nine-member committee was created by the war production board to control the production, importation and allocation of all food supplies in U.S. in the interest of the Allied war effort.

Wickard planned to lay before the committee a report that agricultural production prospects have rarely been better at this season of the year. The federal crop reporting board said that if the weather continues favorable, previous records of farm production may be considerably exceeded.

This picture of American prospects was in sharp contrast with conditions in German-controlled Europe. Reports received by Wickard through state department and other channels indicate that continental Europe faces one of its darkest food-production seasons in years, due to an unusually severe winter that killed large acreages of winter grain crops, a late dry spring, and shortages of labor, fertilizer, seeds, farm power and equipment.

ARMY RECRUITS

Canada Moving Toward Mobilization Of Manpower

Ottawa.—Half the number of recruits for the Canadian Active Army in the period Jan. 1, 1942, to March 31, 1943, had been obtained by the end of May. Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons.

He said the number of men required in this period for service anywhere was estimated by Defence Minister Ralston at from 80,000 to 100,000 men, and of that number more than 50,000 had enlisted by the end of May.

"These figures show clearly that, at the present time, the voluntary system of recruitment is functioning adequately," said Mr. King.

Canada had to keep in balance the requirements from a limited population of men and women for essential services, for food production, for munitions and for the forces.

"There is a limit to the numbers of men who can be drained from the farms and from essential services without paralyzing the life of the community," said Mr. King, speaking in support of an amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act.

An effort had been made to identify conscription for overseas service in the army with a total effort for total war.

The fact that it is conscription for the army, rather than for the navy or the air force, which is made the symbol of total war effort shows clearly that its advocates continue to think more in the terms of the last war than of the present war."

The National Resources Mobilization meant the most effective use of all the men and women available and had nothing whatever to do with the method by which mobilization was achieved.

It was evident that Canada was moving toward mobilization of manpower.

SHORT WAVE SYSTEM

Canada Is Considering Proposal To Establish Broadcasting

Ottawa.—The House of Commons radio committee has placed a proposal for construction of a short wave broadcasting system in Canada at the top of its agenda.

Learning that equipment is immediately available but that the opportunity for purchase may disappear at any time, the committee deflected a proposal to make an interim report to parliament.

At a previous session the committee learned from Dr. A. Frigon, CBC assistant general manager, that short wave channels allocated to Canada now are in use by other countries. It was possible to still operate on these channels but in some cases there might be interference, he said.

CREWS SPEED WORK

B.C. ROAD LINKS

Twelve hundred Japanese are working on the Blue River highway between Jasper and Kamloops, in speeding the construction of that gap on the northern outlet to the Pacific coast.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association are watching this work with interest, particularly as this province has endeavored for some time to bring about the construction of new links with the B.C. highway system.

Reports indicate that road building machinery is on the job and steady progress is being made.

Within the province, road work also is being advanced in various sections.

The "seal coat" surfacing of the Trans-Canada highway section for 35 miles from Walsh, on the Saskatchewan border, to Redcliff, west of Medicine Hat, has been completed, according to officials of the public works department.

For some time the province has been queried by A.M.A. officers as to when this surfacing would be completed. This route is expected to attract a large volume of westbound motor traffic this summer, in addition to many eastbound drivers certain to take advantage of improvements on this main highway.

Provincial road officials have stated that work on several projects which are being reconstructed, or rebuilt entirely on a new route, will be completed by the end of June, so that there will be little interruption to holiday motor traffic during the peak of the season.

The Prince of Wales hotel at Waterton will not open this season, which is a great disappointment to everyone in the Park.

Three young lads, with fish rods in hand, were seen heading homeward on Wednesday evening, wearing beautiful black and blue eyes. The story is told that they were hit by the tails of large fish.

Single men and childless widowers up to and including 35 years of age are subject to compulsory military training under a proclamation tabled in the House of Commons on Wednesday.

Messrs. D. MacPherson and S. White, of the Blaimore teaching staff left Wednesday afternoon for the Service Flying School No. 3 at Currie Barracks, where they will take a three-week course in air cadet training.

Among recent R.C.A.F. enlistments we note the name of Arnold F. Bartelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bartelli, of Blaimore. He has enlisted at Calgary as an aero engine mechanic. Previous to enlistment, Arnold was machinist at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co's plant at Trail, B.C.

Ladies' hats are soon to be included in Canada's ration list. Why not? Many a boy can substitute the hat or cap with a coating of blubber, butter, turpentine or anything, and thereby gather up the unnecessary dust and filth. Stick the head of such a sheik in the garden and it would do a whole lot in the way of fertilizing. Such matters are being studied in universities today.

The dance hall has lately been re-decorated and is very attractive and comfortable. A refreshment counter is operated in connection. HENRY FORD ON SCHOOLS

"Even during the war, we cannot afford to neglect the youngsters. Some people think that because war is at war, the things our children need in the way of education and all that should go with it are luxuries we cannot now afford. They claim taxes will be too high. About the only good use I can see for money is to do something worthwhile with it that will help the children. Decidedly, we can't cut down now on the money we spend to make sturdy, healthy and intelligent citizens of them."—Nation's Schools, April, 1942.

When it comes to selecting a spot for their annual vacation, residents of Cardston district and all parts of Southern Alberta are indeed fortunate when it is considered that the Waterton Lakes National Park is almost at their front door. Waterton Lakes is within easy reach of the residents of a large surrounding territory, and a few millions of gas will bring the whole family to the shores of one of the finest summer resorts in Western Canada.—Cardston News.

NEUMAN-MURPHY

Before a flower-bedecked altar in the United church, Cowley, one of the prettiest weddings of the season took place on Saturday, June 13, at 2:30 p.m., when Sylvia Beryl, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Murphy, became the bride of Gustave A. Neuman, of the R.C.A.F., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Neuman, of Pincher Creek, Rev. W. H. Irwin, of Bellevue, officiating.

The bride, entering the room on the arm of her father, was exquisite in a gown of ivory duchesse satin, over which she wore an embroidered silk tulle veil, held in place by a halo of shell pink baby roses. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses, carnations, baby's breath and fern. At her throat she wore a necklace of pearls. Her attendants, Miss Edith Murphy, sister of the bride, was attired in a floor-length gown of cameo sheer. Mrs. Alvin Murphy, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of heaven-blue sheer. Each wore a corsage of tall-martins roses and fern. Little Dale Martin, dainty in rose pink organdie, preceded the bride, strewing flowers in her path to the altar. The groom wearing R.C.A.F. blue, was supported by his eldest brother, Mr. Charles Neuman, of Kimberley, B.C. Mr. Alfred Fortin and Mr. Alvin Murphy were ushers. The bride's mother wore a dress of tropical rose with white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and fern. The groom's mother was gowned in navy blue with white accessories, and a corsage of deep-pink carnations and fern. Mrs. Arthur Tustian, accompanied by Mr. Tustian with his violin, played the wedding march.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Irwin, of Bellevue, sang "I Love You Truly." After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where around forty guests partook of a dainty repast, after which the happy young couple left for a short trip before leaving for Toronto, where they will make their home temporarily. For going away, the bride wore a beige ensemble with brown accessories.

THE POWER OF PRAYER

A parson, walking down the street, was attracted by some very strong and colorful language close by. Turning, he observed a man having some difficulty slipping the rim of his spare tire on the wheel. "My good man, that kind of language won't help you," he said. "When you are in trouble you should ask the Lord to help you," "Well," replied the angry driver, "I've tried everything else, I might as well try that." So saying, he bowed his head for a moment, then raised up, took the rim, and slid it smoothly and easily on the wheel. The parson looked, scratched his head, and said: "Well, I'll be damned."

HOW THE PRINTER'S

DEVIL GOT HIS NAME

Just to prove that there's nothing inherently diabolical about the printing business, here is the story of how the "printer's devil" got his name.

The famed sixteenth century printer, Aldus Manutius, brought to his shop in Venice a negro boy as his helper. Venetians thought the dark-skinned lad was a creature of the devil himself, and so called him.

The hue and cry waved hot, and finally old Aldus published this notice: "I, Aldus Manutius, printer to the Holy Church and to the Doge, have this day made public exposure of my 'devil.' All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him."—Typographical Journal, New York.

Eliminate Waste

Says Cloth Saved Is Enough To Provide Uniforms For Services

R. P. Chisholm, administrator of wholesale trade of the wasteful prices and trade board, told a Vancouver luncheon meeting that restriction on men's clothing would save enough material to provide a uniform for every man in the Canadian armed services and elimination of little used lines by plumbing manufacturers will release enough steel to produce 250 medium tanks.

"At the moment, we all acknowledge that we are faced with a declining standard of living," he said. "But what we call a lower standard of living may very well be a saner standard of living if we learn to eliminate waste."

Victoria Cross Conferred On Two Men Of Submarine Crew

The admiralty announced that the Victoria Cross has been conferred upon two men who removed two unexploded bombs which had become embedded in the streamlined casing of the gun of the submarine Thrasher.

Lieut. Peter S. W. Roberts, 25, and Petty Officer Thomas W. Gould, 28, pushed and dragged one bomb 20 feet through a narrow space of the gun casing until it could be lowered over the side.

The bombs were dropped when the submarine was attacked by depth charges and aircraft after it had sunk a heavily escorted supply ship.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 21

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

Golden text: Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. Mark 16:15.

Lesson: Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:49-53.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 49:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

Matthew's Report of The Great Commission, Matthew 28:16-20. The eleven disciples (the successor of Judas had not yet been chosen) went to the mountain in Galilee where Jesus had appointed a meeting. It was a well-known meeting place, and there Jesus came to them—the appearance which probably is to be identified with the one mentioned by Paul in I. Cor. 15:6, where he was seen "by about five hundred at once."

When Jesus appeared in their midst some recognized him and worshiped him; others (not the eleven) doubted. Throughout his early life, and now here also after three centuries, Jesus has been a divider of men.

"All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth"; in these words Jesus asserted his right to command. The future of his kingdom was his supreme concern, and he issued his royal order: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you."

"To the people of his time the audacity of the command must have sounded like insanity. It so seems to some in our day. In the light of reason the command was ludicrous. In the light of history it is sublime" (Thomas J. Villoro).

"And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." May these words become to us not only a belief but an experience.

"I need thy presence every passing hour."

What but thy grace can foil the tempter's power? Who like thyself my Guide and Stay can be? Through cloud and sunshine, O abide with me!"

The missionary John Paton, has testified to the felt presence of the Lord, in the midst of his hard and lonely labors in the New Hebrides. Speaking of a time of great trial, he said: "Nothing else than the abiding presence and power of my dear Lord and Savior could have prevented me from losing my reason and perishing miserably. His words, 'Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world,' became to me so real that it would not have startled me to see him as Stephen did, gazing down upon the scene."

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CHILD WELFARE

A communication received from Great Britain at the Health League of Canada's headquarters here casts an interesting sidelight on the highly organized system of child welfare in Great Britain compared to official neglect in Canada; especially in Canadian industrial areas where children of women war workers are allowed to roam at will without suitable crèche or nursery accommodation.

Dr. Gordon Bates, general director, said in commenting on the measures taken in England for care of children: "Cars form mobile units for infant welfare, each equipped with everything from a dock stove to an infant's layette and complete accouchement equipment. These are known as 'Nannie I.' Nannie II is a maternity van equipped for emergency feeding of mothers and infants. Nannie III is equipped with spare supplies of all sorts. Personnel of the units are three state registered nurses (one a midwife) and five nurses who have been trained in infant welfare, and a male orderly—mechanic.

"When a unit goes into operation a tent-sunex provides ward accommodation and is fitted-up with portable cots and beds.

"During lulls in bombing attacks the unit visits outlying villages which have not as good clinical services as larger centres. Under supervision of the regional officer of health, the nurses make house to house visits, set up war nurseries for evacuated children and help create new day nurseries. Uses of these units is expected to be widely extended, giving maternity and infant service to outlying industrial and rural districts. The first units are a gift to the nation from a well known English firm of chemists."

Defender Of Malta

General Dobbie Has Nothing But Praise For The People

General Sir William Dobbie has been meeting the British press, and the pressmen have been greatly taken with him. They do not usually rise at the end of these conferences, as they did the other day, reports the Manchester Guardian, and get one of their number to say they have felt it a great honor to meet their visitor. Something has moved newspaper men when they become articulate in this way. Sir William must be one of the mildest men who ever wore a general's uniform. He spoke quickly, after reflection, rubbing the palms of his hands together, very much like the family doctor prescribing treatment. One felt that this calm, unobtrusive man, who has been the soul of the defence of Malta, should be quickly introduced to whatever general it is that believes in inculcating "hate" as the way to make heroes. His talk was mostly about the people of Malta; and it was all praise of them. He spoke no syllable about his own part. And the praise was from the heart. "More British than the King, more Catholic than the Pope." "That," said General Dobbie, "is how the people of Malta have been described. Their love of the British Empire is simply intense."

A Kentucky country editor, quoted in the Louisville Times, champions crisp-crust strawberry shortcake and denounces "the soggy mixture of poundcake" so often offered instead. He adds: "The restaurateurs who dish up some dark and looking berries on a square of wet and sad tasting cake should meet the fate of folk who sweeten cornbread. They should be banished north of the river and be forced to eat cold bread and never see a hot blaut."

CHAPTER XXVI

Ransome thought he would never reach the junction on the highway where the Duck Point Rd. joined it. It was almost noon and the sun shone warmly down upon them.

The Duck Point Rd. was seldom travelled excepting for the tenants of a number of small farms that lay scattered about. It was surprising that any one could have landed a plane there and it not have been noticed, Ransome thought.

He found the mail box marked with the name of the man who had called him, and turned the car in the narrow road winding between moss laden trees. Bird dogs and geese made great confusion as he stopped at the little front porch of the house. A tall, lanky man got up slowly from the stone steps.

"Beckon, you're the one I talked to about the plane."

"Yes," said Ransome, opening the car door. "This is Mr. Randolph, the girl's father, and Mr. Sheridan, a lawyer friend, Mr. Rawson."

The stranger looked them over silently and then said, "Towdy." He turned back to Ransome.

"Can you take us to the field right now?"

"I'll get in with ye, and we can drive up to it. Jee's down the road a piece."

The field where they stopped had been planted in broom corn, and had been recently cut, and most of the stalks were under again. In one far corner they found marsh grass growing, and it seemed to be here the plane had been kept.

The brown grass was crushed down in a great sweeping path, and the men knew that it had happened when the plane used it as a runway.

"Whoever landed that plane must have known something about the place. There must have been a car waiting, and they must have tested this marsh grass to make sure that it wasn't too wet!"

Dick Sheridan nodded. "You're right about that. No one could have just taken a chance on a thing like this unless it was a forced landing."

"The plane must have circled here, to take off into the wind," Ransome indicated a wide sweeping place in the crushed grass. Had Tamar been in that plane when it took off? Had the plane been left there to carry away the gold bars taken from the armored truck?

If there could only be some evidence! He looked hopefully about the place where he thought the plane must have stood. Car tracks were plainly visible. He exclaimed at the number. "Look! There's been more than one car here! The tire tracks were of a different design in the soft dirt."

"We had a light rain night before last," said Rawson. "Jee's ought to lay the dust. So they must be new tracks."

Dick threw open his arms in a hopeless gesture. "Chances are we're on a dead-end trail. This probably doesn't mean a thing."

"Well, I was embarrassed to hear a plane out here in my own field," said Rawson. "It jee's ain't natcher. No one else ever landed out here."

walked over, but there's nothing I could do."

"No sign of a car?"

"No. I thought I heard one go by jee's fore I turned off our lane to go into the field, but I was walkin' and the bushes grow so high I couldn't see."

"Let's get to a telephone. I want to call Taylor and see if he can check for transient planes at the airports around. I think there's some connection, even if you don't, Dick," he said stubbornly. But he knew that he was clutching at faint hope. He couldn't give up, any clue must be traced until he was satisfied that it had nothing to do with the disappearance of Tamar.

Rawson told them the plane gained altitude so rapidly that he had no chance to see the size or kind, "But, naw! I don't know enough about planes. I jee's knowed that was what it was. I ain't ever seed very many."

They would have to go to a nearby general store to call the FBI man, and started to get into the car. Suddenly Ransome's eyes caught the glint of something in the grass. He picked it up and turned it over in his hand. It was a circle of yellow gold that Tamar often wore to thrust her scarf through. Having been stepped upon, it was bent almost double.

Ransome in that moment felt the crush of an anger that he had never experienced before. His fingers gripped the ring until it cut through and the red blood dripped down his hand.

Knox Randolph touched Ransome's arm. "He took the gold ring from his own lifeless fingers. Tamar's," he said through clenched lips.

As they rushed to the general store Ransome thought of the impossibility of finding Tamar immediately. Where could they look? Ransome talked with Taylor and then the men headed back for Shadwell. Perhaps some message had come for Randolph by this time. If they could only get in contact with them. No matter the ransom demand, Randolph had known that he would get the money together.

State troopers were at the junction when they turned into it. They stopped and showed identification cards. Two men went back to the field where the plane had been to guard it. "A network has been thrown up, Mr. Randolph. All highways are being patrolled. Word just came to us that the driver of the truck has been found."

"He didn't see the car that carried away the gold," Ransome asked.

"No. No further clues. Shadwell lay silent in the early afternoon sun. Even the noisy guineas which usually haunted the lane were absent today.

Ransome rang the bell as he hurried in. "Phoebe! Any messages?" Phoebe stopped on the threshold agitated. What had happened to Miss Ransome? "No, eh, Miss Ransome. Dey ain't none come. Dat BIF man done call."

"Taylor?"

"Yassuh. He say yo' get in tech instanterous." She plucked the telephone out of its cradle and handed it to him.

Taylor told Ransome that the armored truck driver stumbled into a filling station at daybreak, about 35 miles out of Tablakhake.

"I'll be in your office right away. I want to see him."

Once more Ransome stepped into the car and started it.

"Wait, Ransome," said Knox. "I'll sit here by the telephone. Something might come in and maybe they wouldn't let any one take the message but me."

Ransome saw the trembling of his lips and knew that Tamar's father was a broken old man today. He looked pale and as though he had spent a sleepless night. His bloodshot eyes looked steadily into Ransome's as he told his story.

foot of the hill leading to the junction, I was going pretty fast. Without warning, the wheels dropped off into the ditch that had been dug and covered over. Like an elephant trap. I knew immediately what had happened, so I just sat there, waiting for their first move."

Ransome asked impatiently, "And what was it?"

"A voice called to me. There's a bomb under you that will go off in exactly three minutes! Get out with your arms over your head, take your choice, bud, the gold for us or hell for you. I thought they were bluffing, and picked up my gun."

The man whitened. "I don't want you to think I was weak, but have you ever thought that you were going to be blown into little bits?"

"No, it must be most uncomfortable," Ransome said soothingly.

"I watched my second hand on my wrist watch. I never saw anything go around so fast. Well—I opened the door and crawled out just as they made ready to light the bomb."

"And then?"

"Some one struck me, and I went out like a light. When I came to, I was by myself sitting in the dark propped up on a boulder. It was cold and I could hear water dripping. It wasn't long until I could see the sky was lightening, and pretty soon I could see that I wasn't far from a road. I hit the filling station soon after and got a ride into Tablakhake."

"Can you find the plane again?"

"Yes, easily. I marked it with stones. And..."

The sharp ring of the telephone interrupted. Taylor answered it. "It's Knox Randolph, he says to come at once. He's had a message."

SELECTED RECIPES

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

With hot weather on the way, it's handy to have a recipe for home-made rolls that can be mixed up and stored in the refrigerator until needed. Happily, these bran beauties take but 15 minutes baking. The recipe goes like this:

- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup All-Bran
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- 2 eggs
- 2 cakes compressed yeast
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 6 1/2 cups flour, or more

Put shortening, sugar, All-bran and salt in large mixing bowl, add boiling water, stirring until shortening is melted. Let stand until mixture is lukewarm. Add well-beaten eggs to yeast softened in lukewarm water. Add one-half the flour and beat until batter is smooth. Add remaining flour and beat well. Cover bowl closely and place in refrigerator over night or until ready to use. Form balls of dough to fill greased muffin pans about half full. Let rise in a warm place about two hours or until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Yield: 3 1/2 dozen rolls (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Heroism Of Sailors

ABC Correspondent Tells About Sinking Of British Battleship

For the three days following his rescue from the Republie sinking, CBS correspondent Cecil Brown was so busy writing and broadcasting that he did not have time to shave or to wash off the oil in which he had been immersed for hours. "But through that time," he says in his story of the Prince of Wales and Republie disaster in Liberty magazine, "through the sickness from the oil, the pounding in my ears, and the burning in my eyes, one constant thought kept a choke in my throat. It was the vivid, saddening, proud memory of heroism, determination, and the way brave men die that more than fulfilled Nelson's great words to his men of the British Navy: 'England expects every man to do his duty!'"

The battle between the great ships and the Republie lasted for slightly more than an hour says Brown in the article, and the Japanese bomb, dropped from 12,000 feet, smashed the catapult deck of the Republie. Heroism among the men was a commonplace. A twenty-year-old marine, Morris Graney, got Brown onto a crowded raft after he had first saved himself by climbing onto a small table. "Graney was covered with oil. His brown hair streaked and his forehead and into his eyes. I think the sight of Graney helped many a man. He was almost six feet tall, husky, almost barrel-chested. Above a square jaw he had a slim, delicate mustache and blue, kind, grey eyes. In all the time I saw Graney, I saw only one definable emotion expressed in those eyes. That was amusement."

Admiral Tom Phillips arrived in Singapore just in time to take the Prince of Wales and Republie out on their first and only voyage. He led the Far East. Captain Leach commanded the Wales and, writes Brown, "Phillips and Leach, were last seen standing on the bridge of the Wales, the water rising up to meet them, meeting, and then covering them."

Have Sticky Job

British Workers Busy Salvaging Sugar From Wrecked Warehouse

Of the total quantity of foodstuffs damaged in this country by air raids up to the end of last year, nearly three-quarters has been saved. One of the best examples of salvage is a very large stock of sugar. The sheds in which the sugar was stored were hit by enemy action and burned to the ground. The sugar was in the basement. "It is probably the stickiest job that men could be put to," said a Ministry representative. "When it rains a certain amount of sugar is immediately converted into treacle. Nevertheless, the work is going on and when the treacle or sugar is refined extremely little of it has to be discarded."—London Times.

Prehistoric Fly-Paper

Fossilized Resin Known As Amber Once Used As Trap For Insects

Once upon a time, in a prehistoric forest, a myriad of insects hummed and crawled about much as insects do today. Some of them got trapped in the gummy resin exuding from certain trees. They grew up and buzzed but the substance engulfed them. Time marched on. Today, on the shores of the Baltic and elsewhere, fossilized resin, known as amber, is found. Specimens of amber in the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto disclose the perfectly preserved remains of the insects which hummed in a prehistoric forest.

The CBC's Overseas Unit is made up of a small group of men from the Programme and Engineering Division of the Corporation who play an important part in keeping the thousands of men and women serving in Britain in close association with their families and friends in Canada.

From many points in England the mobile unit arranges, records and presents for listeners in Canada broadcasts describing the life and activities of the soldiers, sailors, airmen, nursing sisters and civilian workers. Of their many duties perhaps one of prime concern and importance to Canadians at home is the arranging of the weekly Troop Broadcasts of personal greetings when men and women step up to the microphone somewhere in England to send their own messages home to Canada. These messages reach Canada in the form of recorded discs or are received direct from Overseas by the CBC's Ottawa shortwave receiving station and then recorded. In the case of messages recorded in England, the name of the men and women who have taken part in the programme are wirelessly to Ottawa and are subsequently checked against the recording when it arrives. In the latter case the record is played over and the names of those who have taken part in the broadcast are listed. It is then that the names of the participants are released to the Canadian Press to appear in the newspapers several days before the broadcast is to take place. For the benefit of rural listeners who may not have the opportunity of seeing the published lists the names of the speakers are broadcast, as soon as possible after they are received, immediately following the News Analysis at 6.30 p.m. C.D.T. (5.30 p.m. M.D.T.), over Station C.B.K. Watrous (540 Kc.). It will be understood, why there is sometimes an unavoidable delay of several weeks between the time the broadcast or recording is made in Britain and when it is heard on the Canadian networks.

Feeding Raw Garbage To Pigs Infects Pork With Disease

Canada has a regulation which insists that pigs must not be fed raw garbage. There is no such regulation in the United States. The latter country has about 17 per cent. of its population infected with trichinosis, a disease which results from the eating of pork containing live worms. Canada's population has only one per cent. suffering from the disease. These were facts adduced in a joint paper by Dr. T. W. M. Cameron and Dr. M. J. Miller presented before the medical section of the Royal Society of Canada at Toronto.

An Imposing Total

Cleaning Windows On One Manchester House Is Some Job

The abode of a neighbor of mine, writes a Manchester Guardian correspondent, has 26 downstairs windows and 22 upstairs windows. The average 22 small diamond or square panes each. That makes—as he bitterly points out—the neatly consecutive total of 3,456 panes to be cleaned. Each pane has four corners. That makes 13,824, nice little beady corners to be dismanned periodically. But, also, a window has two sides. So, outside and in, that quite Old World-looking house has nearly 28,000 pane-corners to be tackled.

Save Old Rags

They Are Desperately Needed For War Purposes

Every woman in every home has a hundred opportunities daily to be a vital cog in the war machine. For instance, the Director of Salvage at Ottawa points to rags. They're desperately needed for war—wrapping delicately milled parts for airplane wheels on airframes; in army workshops, and aboard Canadian ships. Homes are the greatest source of supply.

In appealing for rags, as for other materials, the Salvage Director says, "Do the job carefully and thoroughly so the material can be moved to the 'front line' fast."

Save white woollens, colored woollens; coatings and suitings; and cottons. Wrap each class in separate parcels, and, please, don't put clean and soiled rags together. Put old carpets and sack scrap in separate containers.

"NERVES" CAN BE CHANGED INTO ASSETS

What Mrs. Needs is an absorbing interest in her life. If she'd take over the leadership of the girls club in her neighborhood she'd soon forget petty annoyances—become cheerful, vital, a pleasant companion. "Speedie" is John's middle name. It's rush to work, rush through lunch—no wonder he fumes and fumes, blowing up at the most inopportune times. Learn to lead a little, John. Get enough sleep. Take time to enjoy your meals. You'll do a better job, be a better "pal" if you and Mary would get out in the air, play games and take walks.

In our 32-page booklet a famous physician tells ways to control "nerves" to achieve serenity and vitality. Explains psychological causes of "nerves," also how to diet and exercise to gain radiant health. Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Overcoming Nerves" and "Everyday Health Problems" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

At least 400 innocent persons have been executed by the Nazis in reprisal against the shooting of Reinhard Heydrich. In civilized countries that blame would have been laid on one.
